Generations

I Why must the Bible afflict us with genealogies? What purpose, asks Rabbi David Wolpe, do all those lists of names serve? Even the devout reader's eyes may glaze over when the "begats" go on their endless parade. There is great significance, however, in those seemingly arbitrary chronicles.

Leon Kass, in his profound book on Genesis, "The Beginning of Wisdom," revises the generations between Adam and Noah. He notes that between the year that Lamech (Noah's father) is born and the year Adam dies, all nine generations of human beings are alive at the same time. Remarkably, Noah is the first person born into the world after the death of Adam.

Noah is the first to be born into a world that knows natural death. He is the first with no direct link to Eden. As Kass beautifully notes, "Noah...means both 'comfort' and 'lament,' a perfect name for new life seen in the light of inevitable death. These facts may explain in part, why Noah would, uniquely, later find grace in the eyes of the Lord."

Genealogies are reminders of mortality, of the chain of generations, of the importance of each individual life even in the grand sweep of time. They connect one age to another and give us the assurance that we, too, will be remembered.

The names of departed members of the congregation listed on the Wall of the Garden are etched into the Wall of the Garden in a separate section of the Wall of the Garden during the Holocaust, and a plaque has been installed near the entrance to the Garden.

In addition a beautiful mosaic was added to the Garden to commemorate the Jewish martyrs of ages past. This was a generous gift from a member of the congregation.

We urge those who have not yet contributed to the project to do so indicating their name on the Wall or by making a gift to the Garden for ongoing work on the Garden.

You may inquire at the Synagogue for details of procedures for including your name, to whom you may wish to establish a fund.

PSALM 138

The Lord is my shepherd,
He maketh me to lie down,
He leadeth me beside still waters,
He restoreth my soul,
He guideth me in straight paths

His names sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley
of the shadow of death,

I will fear no evil,
For Thou art with me,

Thy rod and Thy staff
Thou preparedst a table

of mine enemies,
Thou hast anointed my head
with oil,
and my feet with shoes.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
the days of my life,
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.
